ready for a POP!

Caring for a home is a big juggling act. Last weekend I cleaned my mini blinds, unclogged my shower drain for the umpteenth time, priced out porcelain tiles for my laundry room/mudroom, called the HVAC guy to get an estimate on a new compressor (ouch), and looked into deer-resistant plants. And that was just Saturday. But what about the fun stuff? It's also important to make time to give our home the decorating fluff-ups it deserves. So put down that laundry basket and get comfortable on your sofa. Now look through our second-annual Pop of Color special section, starting on page 95. Over the past few months, the editors and I have searched for the best and brightest finds that can instantly perk up a room—93 in all—from a yellow clock to a purple lamp. We hit on every hue, even trendy pale pink. Oh, and to make things quick and easy, we organized all the pages in the section by color, because you've told us that's how you like to shop, and we pride ourselves on being the most shoppable home magazine out there. Yes, this year we pulled out all the stops—I mean, all the pops. That's an excellent reason to rethink your to-do list and put "add a pop of color" at the top. I have a good feeling you'll be crossing that one off in no time.

dear HGTV magazine,

Readers share their thoughts and tell us which stories inspired them most.

Many thanks to Donna Barnett

[in September's "I Decorated My House for Me and Only Me!"] for the idea to use a folding screen as a headboard. After seeing her bedroom, I decided to rescue a screen that had been all but forgotten at my mother-in-law's house. I just had to paint it white, and now it looks great.

—Meg McDonald, Niceville, FL

I absolutely love the idea of painting

a pattern on a floor like you showed in "Be a Little More Daring With Your Decorating" [March]. I've wanted to install Moroccan tile in my bathroom for a while now, but it's out of my budget. This seems like a great alternative. Thanks for the inspiration.

—Haley Miles, Ashburn, VA

A friend gave me a subscription to HGTV Magazine, and I'm loving the practical tips on everything from food safety and decluttering to paint colors and decorating. Perusing every page is so fun. In the March issue, I especially liked the green front door ["Come On In!"] and "50 Things You Can Toss," which I definitely needed.

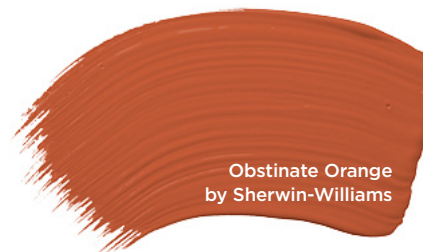

—Mary Lem, Chilliwack, British Columbia

I was pleasantly surprised to see the ottoman you made over and repurposed into a multitasking coffee table in your March issue ["Would You Let This Ottoman in Your House?"]. About a year ago, a friend helped me rehab a similarly ugly secondhand ottoman, and I used it the exact same way: as a coffee table in my living room. Thanks for giving my project your stamp of approval.

—Kathy Nibbelink, Grand Rapids, MI

Obsolete Orange
by Sherwin-Williams

My husband was skeptical about the bright color I chose to paint an old chest—Obsolete Orange by Sherwin-Williams—until your October issue arrived in the mail. You painted the cabinet on your cover a similar shade, and it affirmed my decision to go bold. I guess the many years I've spent watching and reading are starting to pay off.

—Carla Hughes, Conway, SC

"The High/Low List" is the story in the magazine I turn to first. It's perfect for those of us who like to refresh our homes with color and updated pieces but without a major investment. Your clever finds go to show that style is within everyone's budget. Keep these fun pages coming!

I recently purchased a bench for my mudroom but didn't know what to put above it. Then your January/February issue came to the rescue. I saw the framed calendar in "Style With What You Have," found the exact Rifle Paper Co. calendar online, and placed the pages in inexpensive frames from Michaels. Thanks for the hint.

—Maggie Funck, Sun Prairie, WI

The House Tours are usually my favorite parts of the magazine. I like peeking into homes all over the country, and I really loved the Lukkens' house [January/February's "How to Make a New House Look Old"]. It has so much character! The pieces they chose completely align with my style, from the furniture down to the art.

—Rachel Henry, Columbus, IN

Stein World
Ariga 28¼"-tall

I'm redoing my kitchen and family room with a beachy theme and have been looking for a table lamp with a blue glass base. There are lots to be found, but I need a tall one for behind my couch. The Stein World lamp in December's "The High/Low List" fits the bill beautifully. I can finally stop tearing my hair out. Thanks!

—Ilona Bromley, Broadview Heights, OH

Thanks for encouraging me to decorate with DIY art. Your article [January/February's "Fill a Wall With Art You Make Yourself!"] inspired me to frame a tea towel for my kitchen. I'm a teacher, and next up on my list is to create some art for my classroom.

—Deanna Elkins, Robeline, LA

Editor's Note: In our January/February issue, we neglected to mention that three paintings in the story "Fill a Wall With Art You Make Yourself!" were inspired by art from minted.com: Pick-Up Stix by Design Lotus, Block Printed Arches by Katharine Watson, and Hexagon Cluster by Yao Cheng. A big thanks to minted.com for curating so many designs we love by talented artists.

HGTV Smart Home 2016

it could be yours!

This year's home, in Raleigh, NC, is chock-full of the latest high-tech gadgetry. Tiffany Brooks, who designed the interiors, shares her favorite ideas.

about the house

Built in five months, the approximately 3,300-square-foot home has a Craftsman-meets-cottage style. There are four bedrooms and four and a half bathrooms over three floors, including a master suite on the main floor.

Goodbye, cords and cables! Two wall-mounted charging docks—one in the living room, one in the basement media room—wirelessly charge iPads. When an iPad is placed on a dock (magnets keep it in place), it starts juicing up automatically.

Thanks to an automated smart home system, everything from the fireplace in the master bedroom to the lock on the front door can be controlled with an app.

Digital controls adjust the water flow and temperature in the master bathroom's spaworthy shower, which boasts four horizontal body sprayers and a rainfall showerhead. "It's so luxe—and smart!" says Tiffany. "The shower learns your preferred settings."

The mirror in the master bathroom hides a state-of-the-art surprise: There's a 15.6-inch high-def LED TV embedded inside. "Brush your teeth while you watch the news!" says Tiffany.

Retractable screens on the screened porch can be lowered or raised via a remote or an app. When they're down, the screen's specialty mesh reduces UV rays by up to 55%.

The curved screen of the 65-inch high-def TV in the media room means everyone gets a great view. "Even if you're sitting off to the side in the room, you won't have to move your seat to see," says Tiffany.

Ellen DeGeneres

8 questions for the winner of ellen's design challenge

Vivian Beer

Furniture designer and season two champ Vivian Beer reveals hush-hush secrets you didn't get to see on TV.

1. Was being a welder and a metalsmith an advantage?

It helped to have a lot of hands-on experience going in. I have made everything from a steel-and-concrete chair to an aluminum bench. Plus I knew how to take a piece from concept to completion, though I'd usually spend a year working on that piece.

2. Each episode shows you building a piece of furniture in 72 hours. But didn't you have more time?

We actually had less. That 72 hours includes filming and judging, so we didn't get full workdays. To stay focused, Matt Blashaw—he was my carpenter—and I would pretend it was always the final five minutes. All the time we're building, we're thinking, There's only five minutes left! I also drank tons of iced coffee because it was a 110° heat wave—and I was welding.

3. Where did you live during filming?

In a hotel across from the Burbank, CA, airport. I ate the same few dinners via room service or at the hotel restaurant almost every night.

Vivian's must-have drink: iced coffee

Vivian with Matt Blashaw, who assisted her on challenges

The monumental sectional that won Vivian the sofa challenge

Vivian's least favorite project—a dining table that one judge called "a mess"

4. What was the hardest challenge?

Building the dining room table almost sent me home. I made a mash-up table with a traditional wood top and modern metal legs. Not good!

5. Which piece was the most fun to build?

The sectional couch. It was enormous, had a built-in shelf, and was the first piece of upholstered furniture I ever designed. And it won me the challenge! It was so much work, but I had a vision for it, and I would not give it up.

6. Any injuries?

Only sleep deprivation.

7. Is Ellen funny in real life?

Definitely! She's also very sneaky. She'd appear on set when you least expected it, like the time she drove in on an airport baggage handler's mini tractor.

8. You won $100,000! What's next for you?

I might start a group studio for artists where I live, in New England; put a down payment on a property; or buy some new equipment. Or all three!

FIX-IT-RIGHT ADVICE

give it a go or hire a pro?

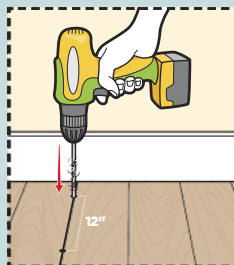

HGTV and DIY Network stars reveal which repairs you can do yourself and which are best left to an expert.

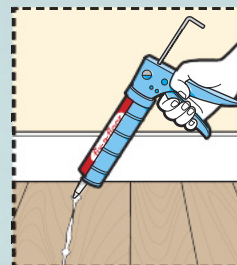

PROBLEM: a loose floorboard

CHIP WADE SAYS: give it a go

"If the boards were installed with nails or screws, this is an easy fix. Wood can expand and contract due to fluctuations in temperature and humidity, loosening nails and screws and causing floorboards to flex. The good news: You just need a tube of rebonding adhesive, like Fix-A-Floor."

1 Drill small holes a foot apart along the seam between the loose board and the board next to it.

2 Fill the holes with rebonding adhesive. It will ooze up through the holes and the seam.

3 Wipe with a wet sponge. Set something heavy on the boards; let adhesive dry. Add wood filler to the holes.

PROBLEM: an outdated light fixture

JOSH TEMPLE SAYS:
*give it a go... maybe

"Before replacing the fixture, be sure the new one comes with a flat mounting bracket. If not, buy a universal bracket at a hardware store."

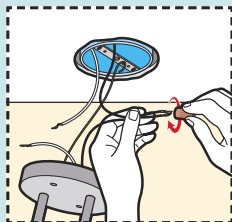

1 Switch off the corresponding breaker on your electrical panel, and turn off the wall switch. Remove the cover of the old fixture.

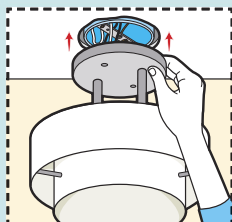

2 Use a non-contact voltage tester to ensure the wires aren't electrified (a flash or chirp equals a hot wire). Disconnect the wires: The wires that run from the old fixture to the electrical box are connected with wire nuts. Unscrew the nuts counterclockwise, then separate the wires. *If the electrical box isn't secure, or if there is no box, call an electrician.

3 The wires should be color-coordinated. Match the black wire from the electrical box to the black wire in the new fixture, and so on. Connect the wires: Put the two matching wires side by side and cap with one wire nut, twisting it clockwise until tight. Wrap the green wire around the green screw on the mounting bracket.

4 Tuck the wire connections into the electrical box. Mount the new fixture to the bracket, and then turn the breaker back on.

PROBLEM: stained and nicked butcher-block counters

ALISON VICTORIA SAYS: give it a go

"Using rough-grit sandpaper [50 grit], rub the entire surface until you remove the stains and damaged spots. Finish with a finer grit sandpaper [240 grit]. If you cut directly on your countertop, treat it with a food-safe mineral oil, like Howard Butcher Block Conditioner. If you don't cut right on it, you could use an oil- or water-based stain instead. One coat is usually enough, and you won't need a topcoat."

PROBLEM: a rust-stained tub

MATT MUENSTER SAYS: *hire a pro...probably

"If the tub is cast-iron, the porcelain surface is probably worn or scratched, allowing water to reach the iron underneath and causing it to rust. Try to remove stains with white vinegar or a product like CLR, but if they come back, you'll have to refinish or replace the tub. *While there are DIY tub reglazing kits made for porcelain and ceramic surfaces, the results can be disappointing. A better idea? For about $500, a bathtub-refinishing company will spray a layer of enamel over the tub, making it look brand-new. If your tub is fiberglass, the stains are most likely coming from the water supply. Call a plumber, who may need to install a whole-house water filtration system [average cost: $1,500]."

PROBLEM: rattling wood-framed windows

SCOTT MCGILLIVRAY SAYS:
*it depends

“Older windows tend to rattle for two reasons: Either the whole frame is loose in the sash, which sounds like constant banging as the frame hits against the sash, or the glass itself is loose, which creates a high-pitched, vibrating rattle as the glass moves in the frame. If the frame is loose, you can use weather stripping to tighten things up. *But if it’s the glass that’s loose, the glazing will need to be replaced, which requires removing the window—not an easy thing to do! In that case you’ll probably want to call a window installer for help.”

PROBLEM: an inch-wide crack in a concrete driveway

CHIP WADE SAYS: give it a go

“For the best results, clean the area around the crack as much as possible before patching. Dig out dirt, grass, and debris with a screwdriver or a wire brush, then go over the area using the brush attachment of a shop vac.”

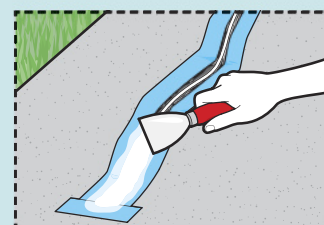

1 Apply painter's tape or masking tape around the edges of the crack.

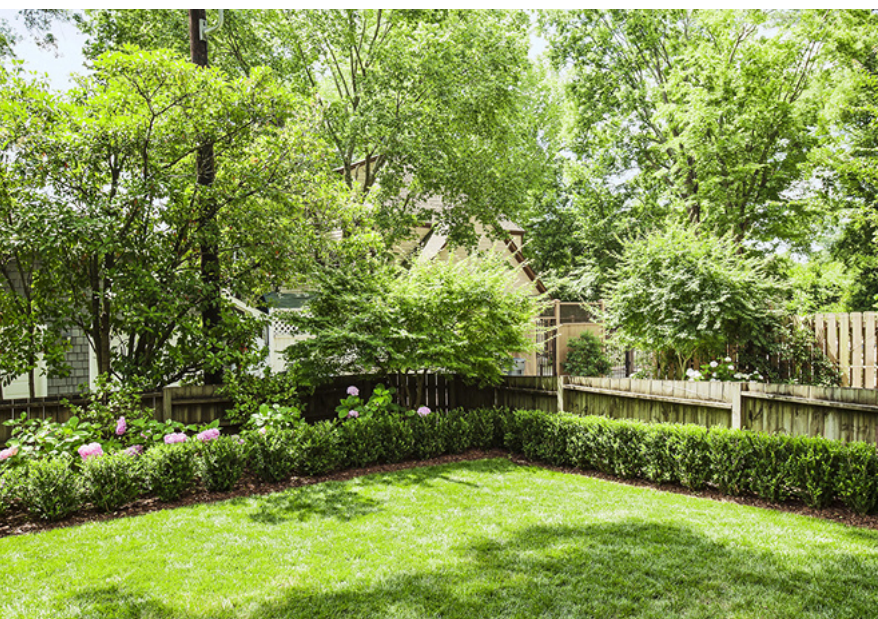

2 Using a screwdriver, push a backer rod (a foam rope) into the crack.

3 Fill the crack with a concrete patch sealer. Caulk-tube versions are easiest to use—just squeeze the sealer into the crack.

4 Smooth the sealer with a putty knife, then peel off the tape. Let the area dry for at least 24 hours before walking or driving on it.

PROBLEM: mosquitoes!

CHRIS LAMBTON SAYS:
give it a go

“Mosquitos breed in standing water, so check your yard for problem areas. Remove leaves from under plants and shrubs, cover trash cans, empty birdbaths, and clean gutters to eliminate pools of water. If you have any kind of water feature, make sure it has an aerator to keep the water moving at all times. Next add mosquito-repellant plants like marigolds, lavender, basil, and rosemary to pots and beds around your yard. You can also plant citronella plants—but note that they only grow well in warm climates, so if you live in a cold-weather area, put one in a pot that can be moved indoors come fall. If those things don’t help, try a propane mosquito trap.”

I hardly miss that old branch.

PROBLEM: a tree with a dead limb

JASON CAMERON SAYS:
hire a pro

“Unless the limb is below waist level and you’re handy with a chain saw, this is a job for an expert. Decay and internal damage can make dead limbs likely to fall at any time—even before you’re done cutting. Plus, working on a ladder on an uneven outside surface with a chain saw or a handsaw is dangerous. An expert will likely bring along a team to help and will take care not to damage the tree in the process of removing the bad limb. What’s more, you won’t have to deal with chopping up the dead limb. The tree service will chip it, chop it, and/or haul it away.”

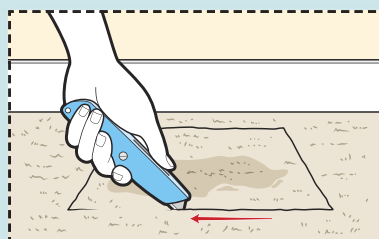

PROBLEM: a stubborn stain on wall-to-wall carpet

MATT BLASHAW SAYS: give it a go

“This is an easy fix if you have leftover carpet or can buy a piece in the same style. It may not match at first, but eventually it will blend in.”

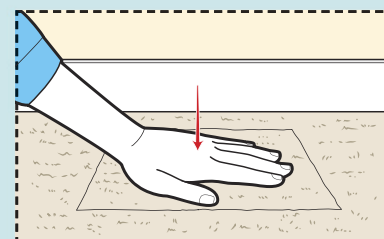

1 Using a carpet knife, cut around the stain in the carpet, removing a piece that’s slightly larger than the stain itself. Use this as a template.

2 Lay the new piece of carpet facedown on the floor. Cut out a new piece using the template as a guide.

3 Cut pieces of carpet tape. Reach under the old carpet, sticking one end of the tape strip to the carpet backing on all sides of the hole, adhesive side facing up.

4 Press the new piece into the opening, pushing it against the tape. Use carpet seam sealer on the seams to ensure your vacuum won’t suck up the new piece. Brush the fibers at the seams where the pieces meet.

how bad is it...

Straight answers to scratch-your-head questions.

...to not wash a melon's rind before slicing it?

Even though you're not going to eat the rind, it's smart to wash a melon's outer skin before grabbing your Ginsu. Most melons grow on the ground, and contact with the dirt exposes them to bacteria that could cause foodborne illnesses—like the recent outbreaks of salmonella and listeria that were traced back to cantaloupes. Those contaminants “can be pulled into the edible flesh of the produce when you cut into it,” explains Lauren Sucher, a spokesperson for the FDA. To thoroughly clean the melon, rinse it with cool water to dislodge dirt, then scrub it with a produce brush.

...to wash your hair every day?

It's trendy to skip the lather-rinse-repeat routine, but for most people, it doesn't harm hair to shampoo daily. According to Wilma Bergfeld, M.D., a dermatologist at the Cleveland Clinic, sudsing up every day helps remove dirt, sweat, oil, pollutants, dead skin cells, bacteria, and product buildup. “Daily washing is not bad for your hair,” says Dr. Bergfeld. While those who've ditched frequent shampooing claim cleansing too often strips their scalp of oil, leading to parched locks, Dr. Bergfeld says the benefits of once-a-day lathering can outweigh the drawbacks. “Just find a shampoo made for your hair type, and use moisture-rich products,” she says.

not bad at all!

...to put a normal bulb in a three-way lamp?

As long as the bulb's wattage doesn't exceed the lamp's maximum wattage, there should be no danger in using a regular bulb in a lamp with a three-way fixture, says Wesley Wheeler, director of safety at the National Electrical Contractors Association. But don't expect a regular bulb to give off three levels of brightness like a three-way bulb would. That's because a three-way bulb has two filaments; the lamp's switch turns on one, then the other, and finally both filaments together. A regular bulb has just a single filament, so the amount of illumination it emits doesn't vary.

...to use glass cleaner on your car's windows?

Go ahead and spray away. "It's what car cleaning and auto detailing businesses use," says Brian Stanaway, the owner of Major Car Wash in New Jersey. The exception: if the vehicle's windows are tinted and the cleaner contains ammonia. That's an absolute no-go because ammonia can damage and degrade the film of tinted windows. For the optimal streak-free shine, Stanaway suggests using window cleaner with some alcohol in the formula and buffing the cleaned glass with a slightly damp microfiber cloth.

...to reuse aluminum foil?

It might be thrifty, but it's not exactly sanitary, says Alice Henneman, a registered dietitian and a nutrition and food safety educator at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. According to Henneman, there's a reason the FDA classifies foil as a one-and-done disposable product for food service establishments: The used foil's crinkles and folds can be tough to adequately clean. Worse-case scenario? Tiny food particles trapped in the tight creases might become moldy. To be safe, put aluminum foil in the recycling bin after you use it (if your recycling center accepts it), and tear off a fresh piece each time you need some foil.

...to keep a plant in a pot that's too small?

A plant smooshed into a pot feels like you do when you cram your feet into too small shoes: miserable. According to Susan Smith, a Colorado Master Gardener in Douglas County, CO, the suffering plant's roots will become impacted and coil extremely tightly within the container. Once that happens, the plant's leaves can turn yellow and drop off, its growth is stunted, and its roots start pushing through the drainage holes. But be careful when you're ready to re-pot, says Smith, because a too large container can be just as bad as one that's too small. Her advice: The new pot's diameter should be only 1 to 2 inches bigger than the original pot.

...to leave your purse in the cart while you shop?

Call it the classic crime of opportunity. A purse left unattended—even if you're just placing an order a few steps away at the deli counter or reaching up to a high shelf—is loaded with easy-to-pilfer goodies, says Chris McGoe, president of McGoe Security Consulting in Los Angeles, CA. "Inattentive shoppers have lost wallets, car keys, eyeglasses, and medication," he says. Chances are, you won't even notice your missing valuables until you get to the checkout lane—and the thief will be long gone by then. Always keep your purse with you or wear a cross-body bag for hands-free shopping.

what's the difference

Finally! Clarification on some commonly confused household terms.

daisy VS. cosmo

A daisy is a flower with a yellow center that's known for its elongated oval petals. While daisies are usually white, you can also find them in a range of colors.

Like a daisy, a cosmo also has a yellow center, but its petals are more rounded and fringed. Cosmos are most often found in shades of pink and orange.

percale sheets VS. sateen sheets

Tightly woven out of cotton, percale sheets are durable and crisp. Some people who get hot while sleeping say the lightness of percale helps keep them cool.

Sateen sheets are also woven out of cotton, but the fibers are much looser than in percale, resulting in a softer feel. The telltale sign of sateen: One side is shinier than the other.

votive VS. tea light

A votive is a candle that is a couple of inches tall and burns about 12 hours. Light it inside a holder to catch the wax. When it's done, toss or scrape the wax out of the holder.

About an inch wide and half an inch tall, a tea light comes in its own holder that keeps the wax contained. Tea lights last for six hours, tops, but don't leave a mess.

loofah VS. shower pouf

A loofah, made from the fibrous part of a luffa gourd, is a scratchy bath sponge that exfoliates skin. It is firmer than a shower pouf but breaks down over time.

A shower pouf is also a popular bath sponge that exfoliates skin. It is softer than a loofah, works up a better lather, and is made of synthetic or recycled plastic.

REDEFINING WHAT'S POSSIBLE

TRANSITIONAL HOUSING TAKES ON AN ENTIRELY NEW FORM WITH THIS PORTABLE, FOLDABLE SHELTER.

TINA HOVESPIAN

INVENTOR OF CARDBORIGAMI

What started out as a class project for Tina Hovespian in college turned into a revolutionary new way to create personal space practically anywhere: Cardborigami. Small enough to carry yet large enough to sleep in, Cardborigami provides instant privacy and weather protection for those who have none.

The secret lies in the construction: Cardborigami an ingenious mix of interlocking cardboard shapes that results in a flat floor, a rounded roof and rigid sides, creating a safe, water-resistant and flame-resistant shelter almost instantly. When folded, it's not much bigger than a suitcase. In Los Angeles, Hovespian has collaborated with homeless outreach services that offer shelter and job placement, with Cardborigami as a transitional step on the way to independence.

The portable nature of Cardborigami makes it ideal for use in disaster relief as well. "We've been working with governments around the world to supply these to emergency organizations," says Hovespian. "When a natural disaster happens Cardborigami can be deployed quickly so that individuals can have a safe, clean space almost instantly."

Cardborigami is more than a temporary shelter. Tina Hovespian has invented what's next in making the world a safer place in time of need.

if your tires could talk

They would drive home these über-important tips.

We're easy to read.

Everything you need to know about a tire is printed on its sidewall. The code might look like gibberish, but it packs a ton of info, like the tire's size, when it was made, and its load capacity and max pressure. If there's a recall or you have to replace a tire, you'll need to know it.

Know your birthday.

As a general rule, toss tires after 10 years. Getting new ones every six years is often recommended, regardless of tire condition, though some high-mileage drivers replace theirs sooner due to wear.

We're picky about pressure.

One in four vehicles has at least one underinflated tire, which is unsafe and leads to more gas use by making the car work harder. And it's just as crucial not to overinflate tires, which ups the chance of blowouts. Find your car's ideal tire pressure on a sticker on the driver's side doorjamb.

We can be recycled.

Car tires live on long after they leave the road. Retired tires are used to make asphalt, doormats, synthetic turf, and more. For a small fee, mechanics usually send them off for recycling after putting new ones on a car.

Spare us, please.

Many automakers no longer include spares with new models as a way to boost gas mileage by reducing weight in the car. Some vehicles come equipped with run-flat tires, which can chug along for short distances post-puncture, or a sealant kit. If yours didn't, consider a spare.

Yes, we need to be rotated.

Rotating your car's tires allows them to wear out evenly. Plan on having them switched up by a mechanic every 5,000 to 8,000 miles or as often as your car's owner's manual recommends.

WHAT AGE SHOULD

SAVING FOR RETIREMENT?

WHAT AGE DID
START?

The difference between those two ages is what's known as the "Action Gap," and it has a bigger effect than you might think.

To better understand the impact, we performed a simple experiment. We asked a group of young people to use paint rollers to show us what age they think they should start saving. Then we asked a group of older people to indicate what age they actually did start. What we found was that there was often a years-long Action Gap between the two. But closing it up by even just a few years makes a huge difference in how much people can save over the long run. Which makes right now the perfect time to get better prepared for your retirement.

quaint purple rose

BY GLIDDEN

"This purple is feminine, but it's not girly. There's something timeless and classic about it. Partnered with the brass accents, it makes for a luxe-looking bathroom."

—Tara Fingold, Tara Fingold Interiors, Toronto, Ontario

Wow! what color is that?

These paint shades stopped us in our tracks. We asked the designers to spill their secret sources.

fun decorating

warm stone

BY SHERWIN-WILLIAMS

"When I call this shade silty, I say it with love. The earthy gray brown is cozy, cocooning, and right at home in this music room. Team it with something high-energy, like this blue-and-white zigzag rug."

—Jodi Cook, Ashley Campbell
Interior Design, Denver, CO

ivy league

BY PPG PAINTS

"I'd never get any work done if I were surrounded by neutrals. I need upbeat, motivating, get-going colors. This emerald delivers. It looks really crisp and fresh on the built-in desk in my home office."

—Jenny Tamplin, Jenny Tamplin
Interiors, College Station, TX

blue comfort

BY PRATT & LAMBERT

"With views of the backyard pool and watery blue on the walls, this room feels like a cabana. It's actually a guest room, but the daybed is so comfy and the color is so inviting that it's become the family's favorite spot for relaxing."

—Jeff Troyer, JWT Associates, Los Angeles, CA

fun decorating

very navy

BY BEHR

"This homeowner's style is totally preppy. Instead of wallpapering this spare bedroom turned home office, we made a bold move by painting stripes. This navy is the friendliest color you'll meet. I can't think of a shade that wouldn't go with it."

—Gregory Shano, Gregory Shano Interiors, New York, NY

gambol gold

BY SHERWIN-WILLIAMS

"A console painted eye-catching yellow was exactly what this foyer needed. To me, it says 'welcome.' Even better, the sunny hue makes the table's detailing pop against the white shiplap wall."

—Emily Welna, Martha O'Hara Interiors, Minneapolis, MN

paradise pink

BY BENJAMIN MOORE

"A small dose of pink like this one keeps a room from looking too serious. This is actually the second shade of pink I've tried inside these shelves. It completely elevated my basic pine bookcase."

—Lesli DeVito, blogger, My Old Country House, Charlottesville, VA

fun decorating

frosted sage

BY BEHR

"You wouldn't believe how dark and dated this kitchen once looked. Orangey wood-veneer cabinets dragged down the energy. Painting the upper cabinets white and the lower ones soft blue green lightened everything up. It's amazing what paint—and a hot pink rug—can do."

—Lauren Hufnagel, blogger,
A Lovely Lark, York, PA

blue lake

BY BENJAMIN MOORE

"After trial and error, we landed on this rich turquoise and then painted it on both sides of our front door. From the curb, you see a refined blue. In the foyer, it's brighter and more fun. It sets a playful tone that we love."

—Sherry Petersik, Young House
Love, Richmond, VA

rose quartz

BY BENJAMIN MOORE

"Painting trim a contrasting color is time-consuming, but it yields jaw-dropping results. This vivid hue reminds me of blooming bougainvillea and adds tropical heat to this New England home."

—Heidi Pribell, Heidi Pribell

TD Rolling Renovation

Renovation projects are easier with help from the experts! Get inspired, browse articles, and watch videos, then check the calendar and make plans to say hello when TD Rolling Renovation comes your way.

Visit TDRollingRenovation.com for details on the tour and more.

Get Cookin'!

Of all the re-dos on your to-do list, a kitchen renovation gives the biggest payoff, offering daily enjoyment now and the greatest likelihood of recouping your investment at resale.

Get in the Zone:

The classic triangle style of the sink, stove, and fridge has evolved into a zone approach with storage, cooking, and entertaining areas.

Start Off on the Right Foot:

Find flooring that fits your needs! Choose stone and tile for a high-traffic area, wood and cork for comfort while cooking, or vinyl and laminate for the budget-friendly family.

The Right Height:

Conserve valuable counter space with a built-in microwave and position it for easy access and safety—forget reaching over a hot stove!

Counter Intelligence:

Available in many colors and patterns, solid-surface materials offer limitless design possibilities. Plus, they're seamless and scratch-resistant for low maintenance.

“Consider investing your dollars in flooring and cabinetry first. Appliances can always be upgraded later.”

Jason Cameron, host of DIY Network's Desperate Landscapes

A Room with a View:

Positioning your sink under a window invites daydreaming rather than dread while doing dishes.

“Spring and summer are the perfect seasons to remodel because you can grill while your kitchen is out of commission.”

Jason Cameron, host of DIY Network's Desperate Landscapes

Power Move: Install multiple outlets along the backsplash and in the island to help you use small appliances, like blenders or toasters, as necessary.

7 DIY
ideas

Cute projects with clever sayings—now we're talking!

color-block doormat

1. Go to hgvtv.com/diy-doormat to download the “h” and “i” templates. Print them on cardstock, and cut them out following the directions on each template.

2. Divide your doormat in half with a piece of duct tape, placing the tape to the left of center. On the right side of the mat, center the “i” cutout and secure it to the mat with a strong adhesive spray (such as Super 77 spray by 3M). On the left side, center the “h” stencil, making sure to account for the space covered by the tape. Adhere the stencil with the adhesive spray. Tape off any remaining exposed coir on the left side with duct tape.

3. Apply two coats of spray paint. Remove the stencils and tape while the paint is still wet. Let dry.

DECALS Custom "Is Dinner Ready Yet?" decals, $18 for a set of 4 words, thelollipoplabelshop.etsy.com

mini-chalkboard herb pots

1. Paint four small terra-cotta herb pots with two coats each of chalk paint. Let dry.

2. Remove the backing from adhesive silk screen letters, and stick them on the pots.

3. Using a piece of chalk, fill in each silk screen. (If you want the letters to be permanent, use a foam pouncer to fill in each silk screen with crafts paint instead.) Remove the silk screens.

CHALK PAINT Cascade, Grotto, Provincial Blue, and Turkish Tile, all by FolkArt Chalk Paint

SILK SCREEN LETTERS Martha Stewart Crafts Bodoni Alphabet chalkboard silk screens, $18, Michaels stores

bathroom eye chart poster

1. Go to hgtv.com/diy-eye-chart to download the chart. Print it on any size paper you want (we used 13-inch-by-19-inch paper), or put the file on a flash drive and have a copy shop print it for you. Then frame it.

FRAME 13" x 19" wood frame in black, $33.50, aifriedman.com

#*@! coasters

1. Using a foam brush, paint cork coasters with a few coats each of neon crafts paint. Let dry.
2. Cut a stencil sheet into four pieces to separate the symbols. Center each stencil on top of a coaster, and adhere it with repositionable spray mount.
3. Using a foam pouncer, fill in the stencils with crafts paint. Remove the stencils while the paint is still wet. Let dry.

Painted globe

1. Cut a heart shape out of clear Con-Tact paper, and adhere it to the section you want to leave unpainted. Tape off the metal parts of the globe with painter's tape.
2. Spray-paint the globe. Use tweezers to remove the heart cutout while the paint is still wet. Let dry.
3. Remove the painter's tape. Use a gold paint pen to write your message on the globe.

mega-size fortunes

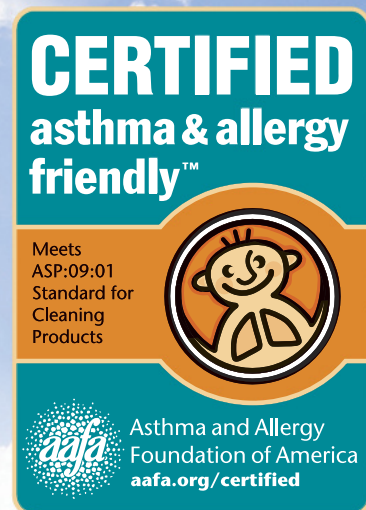

1. Scan fortunes and save them to your computer.
2. Print each fortune image on 11-inch-by-17-inch paper at 300%, or put the images on a flash drive and have a copy shop print them for you.
3. Cut out each fortune. Using a glue stick, adhere each to a piece of 11-inch-by-17-inch colored paper. Then frame them.

FRAME 11" x 17" wood frame in white, $28.50, aifriedman.com

dip-dye a pouch

1. Soak a cotton pouch in warm water, then squeeze it out.
2. Partially fill a shoe box-size plastic container with hot water 2 inches high. Stir in 1 tablespoon liquid fabric dye and 1 teaspoon salt. Place the bottom of the pouch in the dye, and let sit for 15 minutes.
3. Remove the pouch from the dye, and rinse it under cold water until the water runs clear. Let dry overnight.
4. Go to hgtv.com/mothers-day-diy to download the block-letter template (we put the entire alphabet online). Using the template as a guide, cut an initial out of iron-on gold vinyl. Apply the letter to the pouch following the package instructions.

A California cottage gets a fresh, totally personalized look.

↑ dining room

The light and airy dining room includes a reclaimed Douglas fir table from Cisco Home and clean-lined Room & Board leather chairs. A weathered metal medical cabinet serves as a help-yourself bar.

house tours

Leila Sayegh was waffling about purchasing a Craftsman fixer-upper for sale in the Silver Lake neighborhood of Los Angeles, CA. She loved the 1915 bungalow's period details and wasn't fazed by the neglected interiors—she had the know-how she needed from reno'ing a home with her former husband years before. The potential deal killer? The property was more than 300 miles away from an old friend she had started dating. “But I knew I couldn't plan my life around a man,” she says. “If I wanted this home, I had to buy it myself.” To tackle major issues, like replacing the foundation and roof, and pull off interiors with an easygoing Cali vibe, she worked with interior designer Karen Vidal. In eight months the 1,556-square-foot space was transformed, its laid-back interiors in sync with Leila's single-gal lifestyle. And that's when she got engaged to her long-distance beau, Erik Abel. “I decorated the place just for me and—boom!—he's moving in,” says Leila. But the bungalow has proven to be surprisingly couple-friendly, “maybe because I told Erik the only thing he could bring with him was his clothes!”

↓ living room

A bold chevron jute rug from West Elm defines the TV-watching area of the living room. Leila snagged both the tufted sectional and the vintage glass-top coffee table at Living Room, one of her favorite local stores. The kilim-rug-covered lounge chair from Anthropologie was a smitten-at-first-sight purchase. "I bought it the instant I saw it," she says. "I didn't have any plans for it. I just had to have it." The butterfly curtains are sewn from Les Indiennes fabric block-printed in India.

“I toyed with enlarging the kitchen. But I’m not chef-y, so this size is right for me.”

—Leila

↑ front porch

Leila liked the celestial cutouts on the Craftsman door but not the transparent glass or the red stain applied by a previous homeowner. The solution: spray-on frost for the crescent moon and star and upbeat limoncello yellow paint (Mulholland Yellow by Benjamin Moore). The sky blue vinyl chair is from Potted in Los Feliz, CA.

kitchen →

Before the top-to-bottom rehab, the kitchen was a style mishmash, with an ancient stove and 1980s track lighting. For a timeless look, simple white cabinets were teamed with black soapstone countertops and a farmhouse sink. The vintage geometric-print Moroccan wool rug was bought on Etsy, and the ceiling fixtures are from Rejuvenation.

breakfast nook ➞

In the 11-foot-by-7½-foot breakfast area, a custom-built banquette with cubbies is a storage-rich space saver. Slim Anthropologie folding chairs and a compact 26½-inch-wide oak trestle table from Design Vidal don't crowd the room.

↓ master bedroom

Leila's big alteration to this room: replacing one large window with two smaller windows to give her an uninterrupted stretch of wall for the leather Cisco Home bed. Gauzy white IKEA curtains let in light while still providing privacy. The filigreed metal Moroccan nightstands are from Badia Design, and the capiz shell pendant is from Pottery Barn.

bathroom ➞

Handcrafted cement floor tiles from Design Vidal bring color to the neutral bathroom, which was totally gutted. The claw-foot tub—"the only carryover from the original bathroom"—was relocated under a new window. Tiled wall niches hold toiletries and towels, and the crystal chandelier is from the 1940s.

den ↓

Removing the bottom two shelves of the bookcase made space for a custom daybed. Heaped with pillows that bring out the blue in the multi-hue World Market rug, "it's cozy and an extra spot for an overnight guest," says Leila. The walls are painted Wind Chime by Benjamin Moore, and the canary yellow wood mirror was a hand-me-down from a friend. The 1920s-style dropped-pan chandelier is from local lighting store Practical Props.

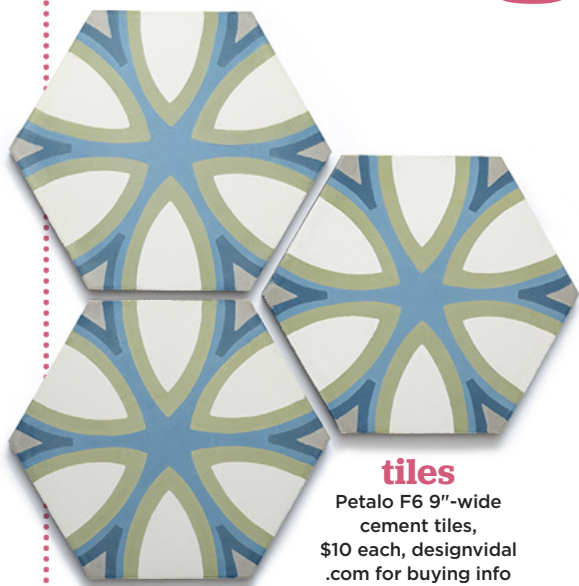

↓ backyard

Painted the same happy yellow as the front door, the back door sets a playful tone for the patio. The teak Crate & Barrel sofa is 10 years old, but pattern-splashed Jonathan Adler and Lulu & Georgia all-weather pillows help camouflage its age. The outdoor rug is from Dash & Albert, and the woven-resin chairs are from Potted.

There are no blank walls in this Boston brownstone, where a couple's shared passion for art is always on full display.

They've been enthusiastic buyers of art for 20-plus years, but Marni and Damon Katz haven't exactly turned their Boston, MA, home into a formal white-walled gallery. Instead their 2,600-square-foot condo inside a Victorian-era brownstone is a kick-your-shoes-off space that accommodates all the realities of family life, plus a constantly growing collection of photographs, paintings, and prints. The couple's relaxed attitude toward art goes back to 2003, when they bought their place. With the interiors in turnkey condition, they could concentrate on filling the rooms with no-fuss modern furnishings and whatever caught their eye at art auctions and sales. A mini reno in 2011, spearheaded by the firm Hark + Osborne Interior Design, gave the Katzes a bit more wall space for displaying their collection, but their laid-back approach to living with art hasn't changed. "We just buy what we like and figure we'll find a place for it," says Marni.

family room

A casual grouping of art, all in different frames, reinforces the easygoing style of the family room. Sized for lounging, the velvety Crate & Barrel sofa is the family's go-to TV-watching spot. With two always-hungry teenage boys—"They're constantly eating in here," says Marni—a wipe-clean glass-top CB2 coffee table was a sanity saver. The wool rug, also from CB2, picks up the colors of the art on the wall.

ART TIP #1

Hang a small piece at the highest point of an asymmetrical grouping so the display doesn't look top-heavy.

wall color

Valley Forge Tan by Benjamin Moore

ART TIP #2

Hanging art low, at the eye level of seated diners—and even farther down—offers an up-close view.

breakfast nook

The breakfast nook, where the family eats most meals, feels even cozier surrounded by floor-to-ceiling art. The banquette is upholstered in stain-resistant Carleton V fabric and Brentano faux leather, and a made-to-order walnut table inlaid with a herringbone pattern echoes the booth's chevron print. Clear glass West Elm pendants don't obscure the art, which Marni hung without any theme in mind. "I put up one piece I liked—the photo of the girl in the grass—then built around it," she says.

ART TIP #3

Find a surprise spot to hang a tiny print. This piece is framed in can't-miss-it chartreuse.

kitchen

The kitchen had been overhauled by the home's previous owner, so Marni kept almost all of it as is, including the custom cabinets and the cherrywood counters. Her two updates: new stainless steel appliances and hazy blue paint (try Warm Springs by Benjamin Moore) on the inset ceiling. "The kitchen is smack-dab in the middle of the condo," says Marni. "Painting the ceiling makes it seem like a separate room."

“A blue ceiling makes me feel like I’m outdoors, even when I’m doing the dishes.”

—Marni

“Propping up art is low commitment. I can change it on a whim—no nails!”
—Marni

fireplace

Marni perked up the nonworking fireplace—and blocked chilly drafts—by leaning an abstract piece against the hearth. Balancing it out: a similar-size oil painting hung over the mantel that reminds her of family summers spent on Cape Cod, MA.

ART TIP #4

Art doesn't have to hang on a white wall. This pale paint accentuates the greens in the landscape.

wall color

Pale Vista by Benjamin Moore

ART TIP #5

Don't ignore trim!
Marni snuck in three small pieces between the windows in the living room.

living room

A 3-D wool rug from Angela Adams kicked off the palette in the living room. "I love the rug's lush, storybook forest feel," says Marni. For seating that would match the scale and mid-century style of the Crate & Barrel sofa, she scoured eBay and scored a pair of vintage Danish cushioned chairs on the cheap. The circular top on the '60s coffee table, passed down from Damon's grandparents, rotates like a lazy Susan. "We couldn't put it out until the boys were old enough not to use it as a Sit 'N Spin," says Marni.

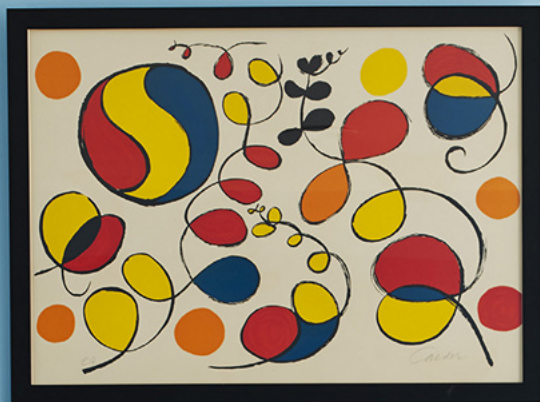

stairwell

Because there's a direct sight line to the stairwell from the kitchen—and Marni is usually in the kitchen—she improved the view by hanging her favorite pieces near the steps. The curves of the vinyl pendant lamp from YLighting soften all the sharp angles of the frames.

exterior

Located in Boston's historic Back Bay neighborhood, the red brick brownstone the Katzes live in was built in 1885. Although Marni appreciates the authenticity, she wasn't afraid to improve on a classic. "Our first winter here, snow leaked into the bedrooms. That's when we installed new windows."

ART TIP #6

Bold art can work next to a bold pattern. This lithograph shares similar shapes and colors with the headboard.

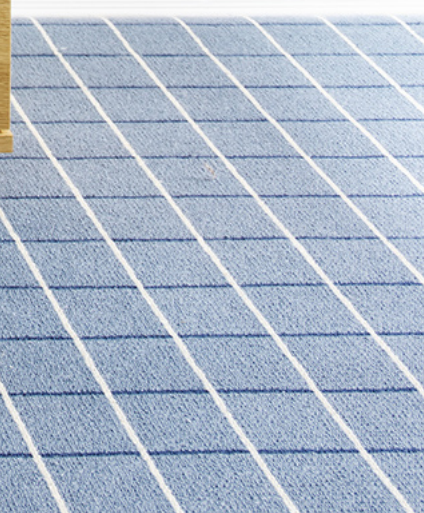

wall color

Blue Hydrangea by Benjamin Moore

sam's bedroom

Blue seems cool, not clichéd, in Sam's room, thanks to a freewheeling mix of prints: dotted Pine Cone Hill bedding, a crosshatch IKEA duvet cover, and a West Elm headboard slipcovered in an ikat Premier Prints fabric. The Karastan wall-to-wall carpet was an early purchase by Marni, after the family moved in and experienced cold bedroom floors for the first time.

To banish any dreariness from the downstairs master bedroom, Marni layered on summery greens, including wall paint (Pale Vista by Benjamin Moore) and Matouk bedding. Gleaming silver circles on the Graham & Brown wallpaper help bounce light around. The square gray stools are from Target.

Oakley, the family cat

ART TIP #7

Wallpaper makes a nice backdrop for art. Stick with subtle patterns so the mix isn't too busy.

in the kitchen

a kitchen and then some

A North Carolina couple packed a ton of fun and function into one cooking, eating, and living space.

Three years ago, Amy Consiglio and her family decided it was time to bust out of their cramped Greensboro, NC, home. So Amy and her husband, Brian Criscuolo, snatched up an empty plot of land less than a mile away and hatched a plan that would suit the couple and their three sons. “Food is like a sport for us,” she says. “We love prepping, cooking, and eating—we even hold little competitions—so we knew we had to get the kitchen right and build the rest of the house around it.” On Amy’s must list: an open layout that let her see clear through to the living room, a big island, and restaurant-quality features, like a pro-grade hood to whoosh away cooking odors. To help her focus her endless decorating ideas, Amy teamed up with designer Jessica Dauray, and together they piled on patterns in a stylish way. “The trick is that we stuck with three main colors: chartreuse, teal, and white,” says Amy. “The mix keeps your eye moving around the space so it always feels high-energy in here.”

rug

The 12-inch-wide gray-and-white stripes on the polypropylene Surya rug keep pattern in play but also serve as neutrals, letting Amy have fun with brighter prints and colors.

ceiling

Coffering on the 10-foot-high ceiling adds character and helps the living room feel cozy. The insets are painted green (Frolic by Sherwin-Williams). "I couldn't stand white every which way," says Amy.

sofa + ottoman

There's never a scuffle over a place to sit, thanks to a spacious CR Laine sectional upholstered in white Sunbrella fabric and a 49-inch-square ottoman, also by CR Laine. When they couldn't find a fabric for the ottoman with a big enough pattern, Amy designed one herself (she studied art) and had it printed by spoonflower.com.

in the kitchen

backsplash + lights

Glass tiles from Interstyle inspired the room's signature color—chartreuse—and are installed in a staggered pattern. Brian found the matching neon green-and-brass pendants by The Urban Electric Co. at the last minute, and “they make the room,” says Amy. At more than 100 pounds each, they required special reinforcements to hang.

island + stools

The 12-foot-long island provides plenty of room for rolling dough to make pizza or pasta, and for working on school projects. A low-maintenance quartz counter with a 12-inch overhang has room for five backless stools from LexMod.

Amy with her sons (from left) Nino, 10, and Massimo, 13

“We thought the kitchen table and banquette would be our gathering place, but, honestly, everyone’s always at the island. It’s our favorite place for coffee, parties, and doing homework.”

—Amy

john's pasta salad

TIME: 50 MINUTES | SERVES: 6 TO 8

- | | | |
|---|---|---|
| Kosher salt | 1 | 15.5-ounce can chickpeas, drained and rinsed |
| 12 ounces tricolor rotini | 1 | 6-ounce can pitted black olives, drained and sliced |
| 2½ tablespoons red wine vinegar | 3 | ounces pepperoni, diced |
| 6 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil | 4 | ounces sharp cheddar cheese, diced |
| 1 large red bell pepper, seeded and diced | | |

- Bring a pot of salted water to a boil. Add the pasta and cook as the label directs.
- Meanwhile, make the vinaigrette: In a large bowl, whisk the vinegar, olive oil, and ½ teaspoon kosher salt until emulsified.
- When the pasta is done, drain it, and add it to the bowl with the vinaigrette. Toss to coat.
- Add the red pepper, chickpeas, olives, and pepperoni to the bowl, and toss. Cover and refrigerate about 30 minutes.
- When the pasta salad is cool, add the cheese, toss, and serve.

Welcoming Falkor to the family was a team effort for the "pack" that includes their daughters, Sydney and Reese, and terrier-mix, Jack.

"Dogs can sense when you open your heart to them"

—KATIE

Wellness starts at home: Katie's mantra—"Being healthy gives you the life you enjoy"—extends to her fur-babies. Exercise and regular grooming keep Falkor feeling well each day.

The great outdoors: Fitting in with an active pack means exploring the great outdoors! Falkor loves to play in the yard and Katie hopes to start running with this gentle giant soon.

Buddy system: Falkor's playful energy motivates his buddy Jack to stay active, but his calm nature and clean coat make him the girls' perfect playmate.

Pet prep: Fill your home with everything you need to keep your new pet feeling happy, healthy, and loved.

shopping guide

The listed websites may not always offer online ordering, but they will provide all the information needed to buy what you want, including the store nearest you. Some items may be listed as discontinued, custom, or vintage. Sites such as craigslist.org, ebay.com, and etsy.com are great resources to find similar styles. If something is listed as “trade only,” the design professionals at decorativebuyingservice.com can purchase these items on your behalf.
